Interchange Gippsland is proud to announce the seventh annual Aboriginal Family Camp. Activities will include a smoking ceremony, traditional meditation, and all sorts of games as well as having the Local Area Coordinators providing advice and support on the NDIS and other local health services. With these activities, there will be accommodation, meals and transport provided from Drouin to the camp as well from Bairnsdale to the camp. Eligibility for the camp is for children with a disability who identify as Aboriginal in the Gippsland region, and their immediate family. Priority places are provided to children attending specialist schools in the region. The camp caters for up to 100 participants including the child and their close family members.

For further information or to register for a place on this camp, please contact us on 1300 736 765.
